

The Man that was Possessed on Griffin Street

Submitted by Rocco Linson

Once upon a time it was Halloween night and there was a psychopath on Griffin Street. His name was Jack Edwards. Jack had just moved to Santa Fe. The year was 2024. But back in 1960, there was an incident that happened on Griffin Street. A man had been terribly murdered and the murderer took his eyes out. The police were scattered across Griffin Street looking for the murderer. There was one detective named Daryl. Daryl got really far into the case and he was able to track down the house of the murderer. "You're under arrest!" said Daryl. The murderer got down on the floor but then he saw the murderer slowly grab a gun. "Bam!" Daryl shot the murderer. Later that night the murderer turned into a ghost. The next day the ghost tracked down Daryl. He killed his brother, then his parents, then he went after Daryl.

The funeral of the first man who was murdered was taking place. No one ever found his eyes because his eyes were still with the ghost murderer. But the eyes were still alive and turned into eye monsters. They went to the man's funeral and put his eyes back in his head turning him into a zombie. So the zombie tried hunting for the murderer, but he didn't know the murderer was a ghost.

The ghost summoned a demon who sent the zombie to an infinite void but took his eyes and locked them in the man's house and then put a curse on the house. That house was the exact same house Jack Edwards moved into in 2024.

On Halloween night the eyes possessed Jack. Right after they possessed him, there was a knock, knock, "trick or treat!" The trick or treater was named Rowan. Since Jack was possessed by the eyes he told him to come into the house and said he had more candy inside. After that he ended up murdering Rowan.

The next day everyone knew Rowan was missing. His best friends Sarah and Michael were extremely concerned. Since Jack was possessed by the eyes, the next morning he went to Rowan's neighborhood. He knew Michael lived in Rowan's neighborhood. And he knew Michael would be home and Sarah would be there. Jack sneaked into Michael's house and possessed Sarah. Then Jack was never to be seen again.

A year later, Michael was going to Sarah's house to go trick or treating. Sarah said she knew a good street for good candy called Griffin Street. When they got to Jack's house, Michael didn't know it was Jack's house, but Sarah did because she was possessed. When they knocked on the door it just opened. Sarah pushed Michael in the house and then the door slammed. Then the demon came back and Michael would have been murdered until Rowan came back. He was still alive. Rowan used Jack's sword to cut off the demon's head. Then Michael went missing.

Then in 2042, Sarah was an adult but she wasn't possessed anymore. That night she was taking her kids trick or treating. It was their first time going, so she decided to take them to Griffin Street to show them Jack's house. She decided to open the door and go in but left her kids outside. She saw the demon's head on the floor. She called out Jack's and Michael's names. Then she continued to go further into the house. She went up the stairs and into the attic. She saw Michael and Rowan chained up. Then the attic door slammed and they could feel a dark presence in the room. Then they heard screams and the door opened and a man in a detective coat came through and slammed the door. He said "Hi I'm Daryl, I'm here to rescue you." He told Sarah to unchain Rowan and Michael. Then the door slammed open and it was Jack. Jack ripped the eyes out of Daryl. Daryl threw an old book to Sarah and it was called "How to Defeat a Ghost." When they opened it, it had an ancient command inside. They read the command out loud and Daryl disintegrated. Then they heard many gunshots. They looked out the window and saw Griffin Street burning down.....TO BE CONTINUED....